G. A. LAWRENCE SELLS

Distribution Of Fuel Oil End Of the Business Is Sold To Socony

G. A. Lawrence Co. has sold the oil distribution end of its extensive business to the Socony Vacuum Oil Company Inc., the change effective as of Jan. 4. The big deal has been under negotiation for several months. Under the new plan no change will be apparent to the Lawrence clientele because the Socony interests will retain all the Lawrence drivers and will use the same equipment in distributing the same fuel, Mr. Lawrence having secured his supplies from Socony.

It must be borne in mind that the G. A. Lawrence Co. carries on its sale and service of oil burners, refrigerators, etc., as always, only the oil distribution being affected by the change. The office and display room will be moved from Main street to 23 Tillson avenue in the near future.

Topsy Turvy Sale will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Crockett's Baby Shop.—adv.

Dr. George W. Pullen, Gynecologist, Returns To His Native State

"Dr. George W. Pullen" reads a new sign on Doctors' Row, Limerock street, thus announcing that Dr. Pullen is located with Dr. Charles B. Popplestone and Dr. C. H. Jameson in the commodious offices at 35 Limerock street. He is a specialist in surgery and diseases of women.

Dr. Pullen was born in Maine and attended Bowdoin College where he was a member of the football and track teams, later going to the University of Buffalo for his pre-medical school, graduating from the latter, following which he served internships in Casualty Hospital, Washington, D. C. Bellevue Hospital, New York City, and St. Luke's Hospital, Cleveland, Ohio. He afterward established a practice in the latter city where he was a member of the medical advisory board of the Cleveland schools.

During the war Dr. Pullen served as a surgeon in Field Hospital No. 16, after which he decided to return to the New England countryside to take charge of Gilman Hospital as chief surgeon to the Gilman Paper Company at Gilman, Vt., being also on the active surgical staff of the St. Johnsbury (Vt.) Hospital, resigning from those appointments in 1932. The following two years were spent doing post graduate work at the University of Edinburgh in the surgical division of the Royal Infirmary, and at the University of Vienna under Professor Weibel in the famous Weibel Clinic, the largest gynecological clinic in the world.

Dr. Pullen returns to his home State for sentimental reasons and has settled in this locality as he feels it is the most hospitable and picturesque spot in Maine.

KIWANIS NIGHT

Rockland Club Is Organized
Dr. E. W. Peaslee Named As President

The Rockland Kiwanis Club last night became an actual institution when it installed its permanent officers and made formal application for final charter. Dr. E. W. Peaslee was the president's guest; Francis D. Orne is vice president; Donald G. Cummings, secretary and Rev. Corwin H. Olds, treasurer.

Following a delicious dinner at the Copper Kettle, George A. Harrison of Portland to whose untiring efforts over a period of several years the club owes its existence, presented Franklin H. Kean, organizer for Kiwanis International headquarters at Chicago, who gave the intimate story of Kiwanis and discussed the by-laws, territorial limits etc. which will govern the local club.

Plans were discussed for Charter Night which will be held in the near future with representative Kiwanians present from all over including a number of high officials and it is expected, a full delegation from Augusta Kiwanis Club which is sponsoring the local group.

CAMDEN FIREMEN AS HOSTS

Chief Payson Handed Richly Deserved Bouquets—Sandy Chapman Pleased Them

The Camden Fire Department Saturday night held its annual jollification which this year took the form of an oyster supper, delightfully concocted by versatile members of Chief Allen F. Payson's official family. Sharing in the pleasure of the occasion tion were some 75 citizens representing all of the town's trades and professions.

Chief Payson imported his guest speaker Charles "Sandy" Chapman, a representative of the Gamewell Company and one time member of the histrionic profession. Sandy has a record of having addressed some 600 service clubs, and after listening to his oratory, his dramatics and his wit, it was readily understood why he is so much in demand.

The indispensable John Taylor led in the singing of community songs and afforded Sandy Chapman a chance for a good come-back when he called for "Keep the Home Fires Burning."

Chief Payson in his introductory remarks told of the splendid spirit of co-operation which had been shown by the selectmen, citizens, and volunteer firemen in the acquisition of modern fire apparatus. He told of attending the Arlington (Mass.) Training School with Eddie Dodge—a strenuous two weeks' session beginning at 9 a. m. and generally not ending before 11 p. m.

Chief Payson's pride was manifest as he spoke of the first aid truck which the Camden Department has been constructing in odd moments the past two years. It was intended to start the drive for funds last July, but because of the Hospital and Y. M. C. A. campaigns it was decided to await a more favorable opportunity. Inside of three weeks the necessary fund was almost in hand.

Now comes the announcement that the truck will be ready for service in a few days, and that it will be exhibited in Rockland before being taken to Gardiner for display at the quarterly meeting of the State Association of Fire Chiefs Jan. 14. The truck will be exhibited in Gardiner on the afternoon of that day.

Town Manager Percy R. Kellar, who has a vital interest in everything pertaining to the welfare of Camden highly commended the action of Chief Payson and Eddie Dodge in attending the training school in Massachusetts, and thought it especially fine that Dodge should be willing to spend his vacation in that manner. At Mr. Kellar's suggestion the meeting gave a rising (and rousing) vote of thanks for the Chief and Eddie.

"We all know what the Camden department has been doing," said the town manager, "and with the apparatus on the new truck Camden will stand away ahead in emergency work."

Sandy Chapman paid a compliment to Mr. Taylor as song leader, but hardly endorsed his suggestion to "Keep the Home Fires Burning." "I presume Mr. Taylor is in the insurance business," said Sandy, and then maybe John didn't get a hand.

The speaker told of 130 alarms answered by the Camden department the past year, which had a total loss of less than $1500. Speaking of the Hotel Rockland fire he referred to one Camden fireman who was overcome and had to be taken to the hospital. "That boy was Eddie Dodge," said Sandy. "He was in the front line fighting an enemy that gives no mercy."

Mr. Chapman gave a graphic account of some fire disasters in various parts of the country being experienced.

City Government Gets Under Way With No Flare-backs—"Jont" Gardner Road Commissioner

Yesterday was Inauguration Day at City Hall and the program was carried out slicker'n a whistle, with no dissenting voice on any of the propositions. If there had been any expectation of fireworks in the election of city officials the idea was quickly disabused as all of the appointments made by Mayor Leforest A. Thurston were unanimously confirmed.

But two changes were made—Jonathan S. Gardner being appointed commissioner of Public Works to succeed Peter Edwards; and Dr. Charles D. North being appointed city physician to succeed the late Dr. P. O. Bartlett.

This committee was of great value to the City Government in giving advice on several matters which were of vital interest to the city, such as the collection of taxes, settlement with one of the city's largest corporations, and several other matters which needed prompt attention. I am in favor of the appointment of a committee of 25, who will act as an Advisory Board and whose services will be available to the City Government at all times. We are faced with many difficult problems and I think a committee of this kind can be of great assistance.

Through the excellent cooperation of our local business concerns, we were able to carry on the business of the city for two years without borrowing a cent in anticipation of taxes, which has saved the taxpayers quite a large sum in interest. We have been trying a new system of collecting taxes. Local business concerns employ collectors who make regular calls and collect bills on a weekly basis, and we have tried a similar plan. Two assistant collectors have made regular calls on taxpayers and have collected many taxes that would have otherwise been uncollected.

In many cases arrangements have been made whereby a small amount has been paid each week, making it much easier for the taxpayer and people have become more tax-conscious. In conjunction with this system of collecting a careful survey has been made of all unpaid taxes dating back several years. Many adjustments have been made and uncollectable taxes have been abated; therefore, at the present time we have a more true picture of our collectable taxes. These assistant collectors have also served many Tax Liens. The cost of this service has been small, and I believe results more than justify the expense.

Last winter we cut about 300 cords of wood and 10,000 feet of lumber from the city's property in "The Bog," a greater part of this work being done by men receiving aid. The city has a wood yard where this wood is fitted and delivered to needy families. In this way many are able to pay for their fuel by labor.

We were able to secure a rock crusher which, used at the Middle street pit, made available several thousand yards of very good road material with which we have improved streets, hoping to be able to tar them in 1936.

We have bought four trucks for the Highway Department and three snow plows, which improves this department to a great extent. We also purchased a truck, replacing the Chandler pumper, and 1,000 feet of fire hose for the Fire Department. All of this equipment was bought locally.

The old storehouse has been torn down at the Public Landing and a new one erected at the Winter street location, thereby centralizing our highway equipment.

Limerock street, Sherers' lane, part of West Meadow road, and Maverick street have been accepted as State Aid roads, and the State bears part of the expense for building and tarring. We also tarred Broadway and North Main Street with State Aid money.

The old storehouse has been torn down at the Public Landing and a new one erected at the Winter street location, thereby centralizing our highway equipment.

In the Assessor's department full descriptions of all real estate titles are being recorded, and on their completion a tax deed can be given of any piece of property in the city. Portland sells thousands of dollars of tax deeds every year, Rockland has lost many thousands of dollars by not having an adequate description of property.

Last year we refunded $21,000 of 5 percent city bonds at an interest rate of 3½%, thereby saving quite a sum in interest. During the past two years more than $20,000 has been paid on our floating debt held by the local banks, and I recommend that $10,000 should be paid each year until this debt is retired.

With the help of Federal Funds, a sewer has been built on Pleasant street, several thousand feet of brooks have been walled, and much of them covered, which improved the city drainage system; also new sewers have been completed at upper Talbot avenue and North Main street, and several thousand feet of sidewalks have been built and repaired.

The school buildings have been repaired and painted; also the City Hall and the Public Library, so that all of our public buildings are now in excellent repair.

The Public Landing has been improved to a great extent, a new granite wharf having been built and Sullivan, Democrat-Republican, Ward 5; Marcellus W. Condon, Democrat, Ward 6; Harry L. Levensaler, Republican, Ward 7. Rev. E. O. Kenyon of St. Peter's Episcopal Church acted as chaplain.

Although the Republicans were in a position to elect the permanent chairman, the unanimous choice was Alderman Sullivan the veteran member of the Board, who has an extensive acquaintance with municipal affairs, and whose ambition is to serve the citizens regardless of his political affiliation.

The mayor-elect was escorted to the platform by Aldermen Lovejoy and Perry, getting a good reception from the assembled spectators and general applause when he completed his inaugural address. Mayor Thurston was elected two years ago as a Democrat and this year received the nomination from both parties. There has been a very general feeling among the taxpayers that he has made the best of a very difficult situation.

The Inaugural Address
We are now about to take over the management of the city for the next two years. The management of this $6,000,000 corporation in normal times requires a lot of thought and hard work, but through the depression it has been doubly hard to keep everything going and every department up to standard. I have been very fortunate in having a board of Aldermen who have given me their loyal support. I have consulted them in all matters of consequence and no appointment has been made without the approval of the full board. Very little can be accomplished without the full cooperation of the City Government.

The heads of all the departments have cooperated to the fullest and I feel all departments have been able managed.

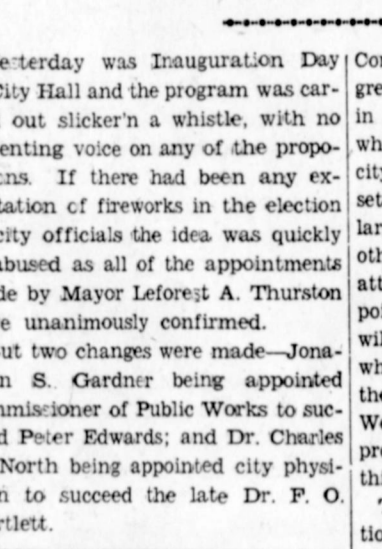

The untimely death of Alderman Charles W. Schofield last fall shocked the entire community, and the City Government lost one of its valued members. Mr. Schofield was a young man of good business ability and took his office as alderman very seriously. He was ready at all times to take his share of responsibility and always worked for the interest of the city.

Death also removed Dr. F. O. Bartlett, and we are now learning what a sacrifice he had made during practically 13 years in serving the city, for a salary that was little more than the cost of the medicine used.

In the present City Council we have three new members, who, I am sure, will give to the Administration their most hearty cooperation. When we took over the City Government in January, 1934, we thought it best to appoint a Citizens'

BARROWS ENTERS THE FIELD

Secretary Of State Will Seek the Governorship Nomination On Republican Ticket

Secretary of State Lewis O. Barrows of Newport, formerly a member of the Governor's Council, announced that he will seek the Republican nomination for governor at the June primaries.

Barrows was runner-up in the 1932 Republican gubernatorial primary election. The Republican nominee that year, Burleigh Martin of Augusta, was defeated for the governorship by Democratic Gov. Louis J. Brann.

Barrows, after pointing out he was "not a New Dealer," stated: "While I cannot subscribe to the so-called Townsend Plan I do feel that Maine should, at the earliest possible moment, take steps to guarantee the security of its citizens as provided for by existing laws."

Barrows was elected secretary of state a year ago by the Republican-controlled Legislature, defeating Secretary Robinson C. Tobey (R) of Augusta, who had held the office but one term.

The other announced candidates for the Republican nomination for Governor are former State Senator Blin W. Page and Executive Council member Clyde H. Smith, both of Skowhegan. Barrows is 42 years old, married and the father of three sons. He served one term on the Executive Council while Ralph O. Brewster was Governor, and two during the administration of Gov. Gardiner.

He is a graduate of the University of Maine, '16, and of Hebron Academy; a past president of the Maine Pharmaceutical Association; served on the Mexican border with the Second Regiment, Maine National Guard; was elected a member of the Republican State Committee in 1926; and has held the office of Newport town treasurer. He got his first taste of politics while a boy, serving as a page in the Maine Senate, of which his father, George M. Barrows, was a member.

The craft will have a beam of 20 feet and will draw 8 feet, 8 inches of water. The frame and planking will be of oak. The motive power will be a 240 h. p. Fairbanks-Morse direct reversible engine. With machinery and gear installed the dragger will cost in the neighborhood of $45,000.

Work will begin as soon as the materials can be assembled, and will mean a four-months' job for this yard.

Leonard M. Dearden, Prominent Musician, Was Killed In Auto Accident

An insignificant patch of ice on the St. Georges River road in Thomaston spelled tragedy Sunday morning for Leonard M. Dearden, a well known musician, who was going to his home at St. George, driving a coupe and accompanied by Victor Korpinen.

The ice caused the car to skid into a cement culvert and overturn in the ditch. Dearden was thrown from the machine, striking on his head.

State Patrolman Raymond Foley went to the scene of the accident, and Medical Examiner J. E. Odiorne of North Whitefield was summoned in the absence of Dr. H. J. Weisman, the Knox County medical examiner, who was in New York. Dr. Odiorne reported that Dearden's neck was broken and that death was instantaneous. The body was taken to the Davis funeral parlors in Thomaston.

Korpinen, in spite of the violence of the crash, escaped serious injuries. Dearden, who was in his 41st year, was a former resident of Brockton, Mass.

He began the study of the piano at 6, with his sister, a New England Conservatory of Music graduate. Later studies were undertaken with F. Addison Porter, the founder of the Conservatory pianoforte teaching system. He also studied music at the Conservatory with Homer Humphrey and Mr. Dunham, and later enrolled in Mr. Davidson's famous music class at Harvard University. Mr. Dearden has had the benefit of excellent training combined with several years of experience at the consoles of large church and theatre organs in important cities of the east.

During the World War he served in the 1st Division for two years! While overseas he played several instruments in the band. Mr. Dearden has accompanied Tibbett, Jeritza, Farrar, Walter Smith, trumpeter, and many other musicians of renown. He gave two recitals in the great Festhall in Coblenz, Germany, and has played piano with Leo Reisman's fine orchestra at the Hotel Brunswick, Boston.

ALL HEARD FROM

And Southern States Are Standing Almost Alone For the New Deal

The nation at large votes slightly over 3 to 2 against the New Deal in The Literary Digest poll, according to the latest tabulation which includes returns from all 48 States for the first time.

The total of 1,370,774 ballots tallied on the question: "Do you now approve the acts and policies of the Roosevelt New Deal to date?" shows 541,845 "yes" votes, or 39.53 per cent to 828,929 "no" votes, or 60.47 per cent.

The present percentage of the balloting against the New Deal compares with 58.51 of last week's returns, an increase of 196 points adverse to the New Deal.

The current issue of The Literary Digest in which the latest poll statistics appear, states that thirty-six States are registering majorities against the Administration's policies.

The twelve States which are voting in support of Roosevelt's policies include Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah and Virginia, all of which except Utah are southern or border States.

The States which are shown voting against the New Deal represent 399 electoral votes, which is a little over three-fourths of the Electoral College total of 531 votes.

In a similar poll on the New Deal which was conducted by The Literary Digest in the spring of 1934, to the same names as nearly as possible, 61.15 per cent of the total participants were in favor of the New Deal and Vermont was the only one of the forty-eight States which gave a majority against the President's acts and policies.

In his 1932 election President Roosevelt captured all States except Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania and Vermont.

Among the States which were represented in last week's tabulation the vote in twenty reveals a fractional increase in the balloting for the New Deal and additional returns reported from nineteen States indicate an increased vote in them against the Administration's policies, while no change occurs in the other two States.

"Since last week the vote has increased by more than 390,000." The Literary Digest states in its current issue.

"Now, with a full array of States, the poll is sweeping toward its zenith. Its final results will show what the country thinks of the Administration on the basis of the question asked 10,000,000 voters.

The current tabulation has added interest because it contains preliminary reports from the last seven States to be heard from including several large ones; New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Vermont, Maine, Delaware and Nevada.

"New York's first 50,680 show an unfavorable percentage of 65.30, while Pennsylvania's 101,381 ballots are 69.63 per cent against the New Deal. "New Jersey this week casts only 16,000 votes; the unfavorable percentage is 71.96.

Vermont and Maine rounding out the New England bloc, are sharply opposed thus far to the New Deal. "The thirty-six States voting 'no' include two southern States, Florida and Oklahoma."

The combined vote of the six New England States is more than 3 to 1 against the New Deal, the heaviest negative vote against the Administration of any section of the country. The southern and border States, which register the largest affirmative vote, give practically a 3 to 2 ratio for the New Deal.

The eight Rocky Mountain States show a composite 3 to 2 disapproval of the President's policies and the three States on the Pacific Coast indicate practically the same percentage in opposition to the New Deal. The Middle Atlantic States, which include such populous commonwealths as Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York vote 2 to 1 against the New Deal, while the combined vote in the farm belt is still more than 3 to 2 to date against the Administration's policies.

SWEEPING NO-RISK OFFER DELIGHTS PIPE SMOKERS OF ROCKLAND

An open invitation to all pipe smokers to try PRINCE ALBERT on a remarkable you-must-be-pleased plan!

Prince Albert now comes forward with a positive no-risk offer to pipe smokers. And already the word is sweeping the state that Prince Albert is "the buy" for real joy smoking!

Why unusual offer can be made
Read the money-back offer carefully. Note that all the risk is on us. We take it, knowing that Prince Albert's quality speaks for itself.

We simply ask you to give Prince Albert a fair and square trial. Smoke 20 pipefuls of Prince Albert. Note how the golden-brown tobacco packs snugly in your pipe...note the inviting aroma as you play your match across the bowl.

Importance of the "Crimp Cut"

A special feature of P.A. is the cut. "Crimp cut," it is called. And that "crimp cut" is an important part of the reason why Prince Albert is so often praised for the way it burns. Slow. Cool. Mild.

And superior quality is not all. We pack Prince Albert in a big 2-ounce economy tin. Your tobacco keeps in prime condition. And you get real economy smoking—around 50 pipefuls of tobacco. And so, just step up and ask for Prince Albert, and shake hands with smokin' at its best!

PRINCE ALBERT

THE NATIONAL JOY SMOKE

50 pipefuls of fragrant tobacco in every 2-ounce tin of Prince Albert

OUR OFFER TO PIPE SMOKERS:

Smoke 20 fragrant pipefuls of Prince Albert. If you don't find it the mellowest, tastiest pipe tobacco you ever smoked, return the pocket tin with the rest of the tobacco in it to us at any time within a month from this date, and we will refund full purchase price, plus postage. (Signed) R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

TO SEE NEW FACES

In Squared Circle At Rockland Athletic Club Next Friday Night

Frankie Merrill of Augusta and Pancho, Jr. of Waterville are the headliners for Friday night's boxing show at the Rockland Athletic Club, and it is doubtful if there are many faster boys in the lightweight class in this State. "I guarantee a fight in every round," says Matchmaker Hamlin, and a guarantee is what seems to be needed in some of the main bouts.

Ponzi Cochran of Rockland takes on a Bay State in this show, his opponent being Arthur Byron of Cambridge, Mass. Byron is no relation to the famous Lord, but he did serve in the Navy, where boys learn to fight as if they meant it. As to Ponzi, that there lad is sure dealing out the sleep punches.

Vine Johnson of Thomaston will have as his opponent The Mysterious Kid, whose home is somewhere in North America. The other prelims bring together Charlie Mantia of Owl's Head (the boy who astonished the natives in the last fight) vs. Bud McKeon, who "asked for it;" and Young Dusty Peters vs. an hombre who is said to reside in the last house on Tough Street.

During January, Printed Stationery with your Name and Address or Monogram actually costs less than plain paper and envelopes. See samples at The Courier-Gazette office of RY-TEX DECKLE EDGE VELLUM which is offered for the month of January only—100 Sheets and Envelopes—for only $1.00. Better buy boxes and boxes of it!—adv.

BIG BLUEBERRY PACK

Ten Percent Increase Last Year, But Below the Five-Year Average

The Department of Agriculture is able to again make a 100% report for the blueberry factories which operated in 1935. The total number of cases of all sizes packed show a 10% increase over the 1934 season but is still 17.6% below the 1931-1935 five-year average. The price to farmers for packing berries are lower than a year ago, but slightly above the five year average. It might be well to mention that prices in general for berries shipped fresh were well above those paid for canning purposes. The increased crop is particularly reflected in the quantity of berries frozen fresh which is 250,000 pounds in excess of 1934 and well above the five year average.

The Department still feels that its figures for the quantity of berries shipped fresh in 32-quart crates for immediate consumption are far from complete. However, here they are for what they are worth, 25,700 crates as compared with 37,033 in 1934.

The carry over from the 1934 pack was so small as to be hardly worth mentioning and already some concerns are reporting their entire 1935 pack as sold.

SHOCK TO SKIPPERS

Surprised By Outcome Of Bowling Contest At the Cascade Alleys

It was with great relief by both sides that hostilities were resumed at the Cascade Alleys last Wednesday night, between the Ganders and the Skippers after the Christmas armistice, and the Ganders started off the New Year, in what they thought was the right direction by flopping the doughy Skippers after they had trailed behind most of the game.

It was somewhat of a shock to the Skippers to have the game snatched away from them, as they had craved along thinking that they could come through with the necessary timber when needed, but it was the Ganders that had the spare lumber when the score was finally totted up.

"Rabbit" Winslow was the bright and shining star of the evening, as he captured both high single and total, but some of the Skippers wondered (under their breath, of course) why it happened that when he bowled as sub for them he couldn't hit the back end of the alley, and then the next time do better by some 50-odd pins. But everybody, including Gene Hall and the pin boys, knows that it is the way in any athletic event. Some call it form, some call it luck, some say it is the condition of your digestion, but Gene says its just plain Hell.

This match was signalized by the return of Gene to the lineup of the Skippers after a long layoff, and the boys said they did not see but what Gene's hold on the anchor was just as good as ever. He had quite a bit of company down in the mud this time however, as Companions Peterson and Grimes will testify. Postmaster Drew managed to squeeze another dinner out of the salty Grimes by the scant margin of six pins more than his handicap of 15. He claims he is going to keep winning from Frank until he has enough dinners coming to feed all his teammates at the expense of the Grimes pocketbook. Winning this initial match of a seven

BLUE STREAKS COMING

Lewiston Expected To Beat Rockland, But You Never Can Tell

The powerful Lewiston High Blue Streaks will invade the Rockland High gym Friday and battle it out with the speedy Orange and Black quintet. Although the Lewiston five is considered as a heavy favorite to win, the fans may get a surprise as Rockland has only been edged by one or two points by two of the so-called more powerful teams in the State and since the orange and black team has won its last two games and has shown vast improvement in doing so the Lewiston team may find that they have tackled a stiff job.

Rockland has improved immensely ever since Captain Morgan was changed from center to guard and with Lanky Lord going to center the offensive strength has been increased very much. With Murgita and Lacroze at forward, Lord center, Morgan and Crockett at guard and with Peterson, Karl, Raye and Winchenbach as first string reserves, Coach Szak will have a strong array of men to send into the fray on Friday.

A large crowd is expected to witness the game and many of the fans are hoping to see a game just like the Westbrook battle which kept the spectators on their toes through two thrilling overtime periods.

WEST ROCKPORT

Henry Lamon who has been a patient the past seven weeks at the Deaconess Hospital in Boston, returns home Thursday.

game series puts the Ganders one up but the Skippers are in a huddle and with the aid of a few fancy sailor hitches expect to knot up the series at one all on the next voyage.

The score:
Ganders—Sanborn 250, Grimes 235, Winslow 295, L. Arey 257, Littlefield 262, total 1290.
Skippers—Drew 256, Dyer 257, Peterson 245, G. Arey 275, Hall 245, total 1278.

STOBIE'S OPTIMISM

Sees Better Fish and Game Prospects This Year Than In 1935

Thousands of sportsmen will have an even greater supply of fish and game in 1936 than during the record breaking year of 1935, Commissioner Stobie predicted Saturday.

Stobie based his prophecy on records of trout and salmon planted in the State's 2500 lakes, ponds and innumerable streams in recent years, with 16,000,000 more of legal or larger size to be liberated this year. In addition wardens have reported that Maine's 15,000,000 acres of woodland still contained thousands of deer, despite a kill of more than 19,000 last fall.

A kill of 600 black bear last year did not decimate their number to any appreciable extent, Stobie said.

If Maine people vote, in September, in favor of a legislative act increasing resident hunting and fishing license fees from 50 cents to $1 each, Stobie said his department would be able to raise many more game fish because hatcheries and rearing pools now under construction could be completed and others built where needed.

Furthermore, he said, the additional revenue from the license increase, estimated at $90,000, would enable his department to establish two more game farms. The State's sole game farm at Gray, now liberates 4500 pheasants annually. With two more such farms it would be possible to have an open season on pheasants which would cut down the large annual kill of partridge, Stobie said.

Modern fishways would be built in rivers, he said, to enable Atlantic salmon to resume their long interrupted yearly trips from the ocean.

Alan Bird is a graduate of University of Maine, where he starred as a member of the varsity football team; and has gained a statewide acquaintance as district governor of Rotary. HE WAS DEFEATED

But Leroy A. Black Proves Himself a Very Good Loser

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

Through the medium of your columns I would like to thank all the citizens who supported me for city marshal. I sincerely appreciate your efforts, although I was defeated.

I believe the citizens should know that Mayor Thurston fulfilled his promises to both the Democratic and Republican parties to the letter by submitting to the aldermen all the candidates regardless of party, for every appointive position. By such action the Mayor has set a fine example for others to follow, being wholly impartial, honest and fearless he is certainly all and more than his friends claimed for him at the Republican caucus. The citizens of Rockland should be proud of their mayor and rest assured that he is working for their benefit and betterment.

I congratulate Almon P. Richardson on being chosen city marshal. I am sure Mr. Richardson will perform his duties in a capable manner.

KNOW YOUR CAMERA

CAMERA manufacturers spend thousands of dollars each year in preparing and printing instruction books which are enclosed with each camera. These booklets give valuable information on the use and care of the camera but the average person looks only far enough into the instructions to find out how to insert the film and right there they stop.

From the mechanical viewpoint the box type camera gives us just about the acme of simplicity. It usually has two "stops" for snapshots and one for "time exposures." However, the manual accompanying it is worth a careful reading.

With certain types of folding cameras, you have more to consider if you are to expect good, clear, sharp pictures and the manual should be studied by all means.

You may have from three to nine apertures to choose from and shutter speeds ranging from one-half to 1/500 second, depending on the type of camera. In addition to these split second shutter speeds the camera is probably equipped for time exposures.

Before loading your camera with film consult the manual so that you will understand just what is happening when you do certain things—and why.

In a recent snapshot contest conducted by sixty-four leading newspapers scattered throughout the United States, the picture shown above was awarded one of the major prizes in the national awards. The snapshotter who took the picture was far from being old in experience but it is quite evident that he had made a study of his hobby and knew what he was doing and what could be expected of his camera.

Study the composition of your pictures, that is, "compose" your picture in your viewfinder before clicking the shutter. Perhaps by stepping forward a few feet you can eliminate some incongruous object—something that may really detract from the point of interest in the picture. Try viewing a scene or subject from different angles, then choose the one you think the most attractive.

Too many snapshotters, when taking pictures of their friends, have them stand as straight as a ramrod and look directly at the camera. That may be all right for a record picture but the snap would be much more interesting if people in it were doing something.

If you will give just a little serious thought to your snapshotting and thoroughly know the limitations or versatility of your camera you will be well rewarded with interesting, artistic or story-telling pictures which you will be proud to show your friends and which will win their admiration.

Society Women Wear Gowns Designed By Fashion Students

NO longer is the young fashion student simply a novice with a career many years ahead. This year, three hundred young women, students in the Traphagen School of Fashion, in New York City, competed for prizes and for representation at the Beaux Arts Ball—one of the big social events of the winter season.

When the Beaux Arts Society Costume Committee met to pass on the girls' colored drawings, it was found that many parts of the United States had been represented by the prize and honorable mention winners.

On Dec. 6th, when all society met for this annual gala event, nearly 200 of the Traphagen students were found to be represented on the colorful ball room floor by the incredibly and fantastically beautiful costumes worn by New York fashion leaders. The ball was planned in the spirit of a party given by an Eastern Maharajah. Costumes were of Indian, Persian and Balinese inspiration; and the girl students were credited with exceptional originality and colorful and artistic sophistication. Many of their costumes, fashion experts think, will have a subtle influence on the everyday clothes women will be wearing soon.

Miss Betty Felton, of Goldsboro, N. C., pictured above, was among the first prize winners. Among the other young women who reaped this public acclaim—while they are still students—were: Lois Butterworth, Douglaston, L. I.; Doris Eckhoff, Palisades Park, N. J.; Anna Gehret, Shillington, Pa.; Marie Huhn, Minneapolis, Minn.; June Lang, Greenwich, Conn.; Doris Lauterstein, Montclair, N. J.; Helen Messina, Haileyville, Okla.; Amy Nakashima, of Japan and Salt Lake City, Utah; Page Aleshire, Charleston, W. Va.; Nadja Gajdoski, Norwalk, Conn.; Josephine Hilbrant, Allentown, N. J.; Mollie LaMonte, Essex Falls, N. J.; Lelia Ogston, New York City; Deborah S. Pearson, Wyncote, Pa.; Isabelle Gwynne Pugh, Durham, N. C.; Bette Rubel, Memphis, Tenn.; Ruth Rosazza, Holyoke, Mass.; Barbara Sanborn, Portland, Me.; Ruth Aileen Simpson, Mahwah, N. J.; Elizabeth Vroman, Maplewood, N. J., and Frances Yervasi, Pittsfield, Mass.

Not only did the young students have patronesses prominent in society, but many of them attended the ball themselves wearing reproductions of their own designs.

Masks and Costumes Mark Strange Michoacan Dance

The dance of Los Viejos (old men), is performed in the towns of the Michoacan province. It is one of the eccentric old Indian dances and one of the native entertainments.

The dance is executed by six jolly "old fellows" who limp on the stage seemingly suffering with the most crippling forms of rheumatism. The leader, who plays a small guitar called a jarana, begins with a fairly simple step which the rest, haltingly and painfully follow. Then one of the others takes the lead with a more intricate routine. The music changes with each routine and both steps and music take on a speed which only the cleverest and limberest of youths can follow—with humorous interludes in which they resume their old age.

Costumes are as whimsical as the dance itself—gaudy looking masks molded from Michoacan clay; flowing locks twisted from the white fiber of the maguey; a huauango embroidered in red, worn over the shoulders; wide-sleeved shirt and extremely baggy trousers anchored with a red sash; to top it all, a broad-brimmed hat trimmed with flowers or ribbons; and, of course, a cane usually made with a grotesquely carved top. Costumes, steps, and music were originated by the Indians.

Valamo Monks Live, But Will Have No Successors

One of the oldest of Russia's religious orders is found on Valamo, the island of Lake Ladoga, which forms the channel boundary between Russia and Finland. The glitter of the white buildings of this community is in contrast with the somber atmosphere one finds within. The Valamo monks once constituted the world's wealthiest order; the coffin-shaped beds, the delicious chant of prayer and the evidence of the asceticism that prevails have little in common with earthly wealth, observes a writer in the New York Times.

The Valamo order observes the ritual of the Russian Greek Orthodox church, and carries on amid altars of gold and silver, rich tapestries and ancient carvings that one associates with the old Russia. But like the old Russia, it must die, for no novice ever will be permitted to don the robe of its brotherhood. The death of the last of the present membership will mean the death of the order.

Weather-Wisdom

After being skeptical for many years, science today frankly acknowledges the truth and accuracy of several weather saws, treasured for centuries by sailors and country weather prophets. Among the portents which it admits may often be as accurate as the meteorological forecast are such signs as wool-pack clouds disappearing before sunset, a "low" sunset, red sky at night, yellow sky at dawn, while even the familiar saying "rain before seven, fine before eleven," is very often reliable. The portents of bad weather, for which there is usually scientific confirmation, include the appearance of "thread-like" clouds in the northwest, a "high" or yellow sunset, and unusually bright stars at night. Meteorologists, however, refuse to believe that the moon affords any guidance to the coming day. They say that if a bad day does follow a lunar halo it is simply a coincidence.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

Rights Stand Above Men

It would be a dangerous delusion if our confidence in the men, of our choice should silence our fears for the safety of our rights. Confidence is everywhere the parent of despotism. Free government is founded on jealousy, not on confidence. It is jealousy and not confidence which prescribes limited constitutions to bind down those whom we are obliged to trust with power. Our Constitution has accordingly fixed the limits to which, and no further, our confidence will go. In questions of power, then, let no more be heard of confidence in man, but blind him down from mischief by the chains of the Constitution.—Thomas Jefferson.

Condor Multiplies Slowly

Due to its great size, the condor multiplies very slowly even under the best of conditions. Only one egg is laid at a time, and when the chick is hatched it stays in the nest for a year or more, being fed by the parents. Only then are its wings large enough to support its first faltering flight. Observers declare that the condor lays its single egg, matures the chick, and seldom lays again until two years have passed. Mating is for life and the destruction of either parent means no more chicks, or if both are killed while a chick is in the nest it will starve.

Tardy Recognition

Although the Royal Theater of Copenhagen was the first to produce many of Ibsen's plays, it did not give the most famous play about Denmark, Shakespeare's "Hamlet," until 300 years after it was written. Kronborg castle, where Hamlet saw his father's ghost, is one of Denmark's chief sights.

Right Out Of The Air

By R F SERVICE

The nomination of radio's "home-ers" couple goes to Fred Allen and his talented and pretty wife, Portland Hoffa. Incidentally, that is really Mrs. Allen's maiden name. Her father, Dr. Hoffa, named his daughters after the cities in which they were born and the lanky, drawing comedian, who plays Father Barbour, in his "One Man's Family"—Bob Burns driving up to the studios in his rattletap car with Bing Crosby in the rumble seat.

Portland Hoffa

who attend first nights of Broadway shows, and big society affairs, and you'll never come across the name of the Fred Allens. She says she doesn't own a single evening dress and has no intention of buying one because they never go anywhere. They live modestly in a two-room apartment.

 Seen at the studios: Major Bowes arm-in-arm with two of his amateur "one-man bands"—Carlton Morse chatting with Antony Smythe, who plays Father Barbour, in his "One Man's Family"—Bob Burns driving up to the studios in his rattletap car with Bing Crosby in the rumble seat.

Deems Taylor

 Newest comedy team on the air—lanes is composed of Deems Taylor and June Walker. The versatile Taylor is one of radio's subtlest humorists, paired off with June, he's bringing in a chuckles for the armchairs. For many years Miss Walker has been acknowledged as one of Broadway's finest light comedy stars, but she has never given much attention to radio prior to her current series on Sigmund Romberg's Tuesday evening stanzas.

 Sylvia Sydney spent thirty hours in "script reading" rehearsal for her recent Radio Theatre program before she went to her first studio rehearsal. Movie stars who have not time to return to Broadway for occasional stage plays make good use of their opportunities to do Radio Theatre programs and rehearse conscientiously for the Monday evening CBS hours.

 Roses and Drums fans are listening more closely to their popular Sunday afternoon radio adventures than ever before. There is a rumor along radio row that the script will soon call for a definite decision by Helen Claire, who plays Betty Graham Rico. Its huge towers and connecting galleries were completed before 1540. Its treasure vaults extended below the sea and here were stored, until they could be shipped to Spain, the cargoes of gold and silver gathered from Mexico and South America in the early days of Spanish occupation.

Historic frescoes, fine mirrors and rare stained glass adorn the Governor's Palace; doors, screens and other parts of native wood are rich with the patina of age. The large room extending across the entire front of the palace was known as the "throne room" under Spanish rule, because here were held audiences with the governor general, the direct representative of the Spanish throne. Beyond the Governor's Palace looms the great cathedral, the burial place of Ponce de Leon, founder of San Juan. Near by is Casa Blanca, built by his children, and said to be the oldest continuously inhabited house in North America.—New York Times.

 Mrs. Elaine Sterne Carrington, one of America's greatest novelists, is now also a radio script writer. She is doing the thrillingly romantic series "Forever Young," which is now being heard over the NBC red network.

 The happiest man in radio is James Melton, famous tenor who is heard Friday nights over NBC. The reason is that when he went to Ocala, Fla., for the holidays, his entire family got together for the first time in ten years.

 Rapidly becoming one of the most beloved characters in radio is "Laddie Fergieson," played by the versatile Cliff Arquette in Edgar A. Guest's Tuesday night program, "Welcome Valley." There is no one in radio who plays a dry-voiced philosopher with the ease that Arquette does. His first radio work had him playing "Aunt Hetty," famous comedy character on the Pacific Coast.

 Margaret Santry, who interviews famous names in the "Tea At The Ritz" program Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays over CBS, is not limiting herself to social register names, but is now quizzing all famous women.

 The Revelers, radio's most famous male quartet, are now singing comedy songs as well as serious ones—a noted departure for this quartet.

UNUSUAL FACTS REVEALED

Rabies, Unlike Running Fits, Not Sudden Attack

The rabid dog is not generally convulsed. Rabies, unlike running fits, does not come on suddenly, but gradually develops over a period of a week or ten days of abnormal actions which finally evolve into either the furious or dumb form of the disease, advises a writer in the Los Angeles Times.

Rabies sets in with a variety of peculiar manifestations, in brief, those expressive of anxiety mingled with fear. The dog appears in a troubled state of mind and usually appeals for sympathy. He is prone to become more affectionate and to excessively lap the hands of his attendants. He wants more petting to appease his distress. Restlessness is a marked early symptom as is also the fact that he is easily startled. He continually paces about, except for an occasional pause. Refusing food, he shows a marked depraved appetite for inedible substances such as sticks and stones, or he may chew his bedding.

It is often noted that a rabid dog will continually lap woodwork about the house, such as floors and furniture. Thirst is decidedly increased, but the dog does not swallow very much of the water. This is because he cannot swallow as his throat is becoming paralyzed, a condition which will shortly be followed by paralysis of the jaw, causing it to drop and the mouth to remain open.

Governor's Porto Rico Palace Next to Oldest

La Fortaleza, the Governor's Palace, is next to the oldest house in Porto Rico. Its huge towers and connecting galleries were completed before 1540. Its treasure vaults extended below the sea and here were stored, until they could be shipped to Spain, the cargoes of gold and silver gathered from Mexico and South America in the early days of Spanish occupation.

Quotation Not in Bible

"God helps those who help themselves." This quotation does not appear in the Bible. It is an old proverb that was first expressed in those words by Algernon Sidney in the Seventeenth century in "Discourses Concerning Government." It is also found in Benjamin Franklin's "Poor Richard's Almanack for 1753," as "God helps him who helps himself," and is later found in the same almanac for 1757, as "God helps them that help themselves." In George Herbert's collection of poems entitled "The Temple," it is found as "Help thyself, and God will help thee." A similar idea was expressed by Cervantes in "Don Quixote," and by LaFontaine in his fables. Even some of the ancient Greek writers of the Fifth century before the Christian era, hinted at the proverb in "Persae" Aeschylus wrote: "To the man who himself strives earnestly, God also lends a helping hand."

Among the rulers' palaces with distinctive names are included the Vatican, or residence of the pope; the Quirinal or residence of the king of Italy; the Escorial of the former ruler of Spain; the Elisee, residence of the President of France; the Kremlin of the former rulers of Russia; the Marble palace of Potsdam of the former German rulers; St. James', official residence of the British ruler. Titles of the world's rulers include Presidents, kings, queens, princes, emperors, sultans, shahs, czars, maharajas, regents, dictators (including Fuhrer), grand duchess, emir, bey.

American Hawks as Hunters

According to the falconers the American hawks provide birds which are as suitable for hunting as any to be found in Europe. They are divided into two classes. Those in the first class are the true falcons, high-flying, long-winged birds which are considered the aristocrats among birds of prey. They include the prairie falcon, the pigeon hawk or merlin and the American duck or noble peregrine falcon. The latter nests in the highlands of the Hudson, where it builds its nest on the face of almost inaccessible cliffs.

One of Fastest Tides

One of the fastest tides in the world ebbs and flows off Mount Saint Michel, France. After receding almost eight miles and exposing 100 square miles of ocean floor, writes S. D. Miller, II, Indianapolis, Ind., in Collier's Weekly, it comes rushing back at a speed faster than a horse can gallop.

Crucible Steel Process

Was the First Invented

Steel is nothing more than refined iron. There are countless varieties of steel, produced by many different processes, the method of production depending entirely upon the purpose for which the metal is to be used, observes a writer in the Chicago Tribune. Steel differs from wrought iron in that it is virtually free from slag, and from pig iron, because it contains less than 2.5 per cent, and usually less than 1.5 per cent, carbon.

By far the greater part of the crude steel produced in the United States is made by the basic open hearth process. A smaller amount is made by the Bessemer process, a process invented by Henry Bessemer in 1856. Still smaller proportions are produced by the so-called acid open hearth process, the electric process, and the crucible process.

Of the various processes the last named was the first invented, steel of earlier ages having been produced by still more primitive methods. It was in 1740 that a watchmaker named Huntsman, of Sheffield, England, hit upon the idea of making steel by melting iron in a crucible, or pot. Because this process was costly and resulted in a very limited output of steel, Bessemer turned his attention to the idea of improving metal for use in cannon. His theory, which was put into practice, consisted of using oxygen for refining the metal by forcing a blast of air on or through pig iron. On trial the method not only purified the iron, but instead of blowing cold and freezing, the metal became hot enough to remain molten even when all the carbon was gone and hitherto infusible pure iron remained. It took years of experimentation after 1856 before the Bessemer process was a commercial success.

Japan Serves Full Meal

Before Tea Is Offered

In its early days the teahouse was called cha and in early English writings is referred to variously as cha, tcha and chaw and later is called tay and tee. Oddly enough, states a writer in Pathfinder Magazine, the tea shrub belongs to the plant family known as theaceae. From the name cha is also derived chanyu, the Japanese word for a true honored institution, the tea ceremony, rooted in the principles of the Buddhist sect, Zen, and founded on admiration of the beautiful in daily life such as cooking, etc. This ceremony takes place in the chashiki (tea-room), which is usually about nine feet square or smaller, to suggest genteel poverty to the guest although no expense is spared in the room through a small door about three feet square and finds an alcove filled with expensive ornaments and a fireplace for steeping tea sunk into the floor.

According to the rules of best Japanese etiquette a full meal is served before the pouring and drinking of the tea. This custom was founded under the Shogun Yoshimasa about the middle of the Fifteenth century and still flourishes among those who remain faithful to and cherish the old spirit of Japan.

Katydid Sings Death Song

The katydid's song is a tremendous rhapsody of life and death. For he has only a short time to live and he calls mightily for a mate, a voiceless female to perpetuate his species. When the notes trail off, it means that katydid is dying and the ground is soon littered with wings and dismembered bodies. But eggs are left. Out of them larvae are hatched—slugs that drop to the ground, burrow down to nourishing rootlets and build underground cells. For 17 years (13 in the South) the katydid will live there in his tiny cell, living on the sap that flows in the rootlet, and then, properly winged, will crawl out to vault into the sun and sing again his song of love.

The Great Stone Face

The Great Stone Face is the name that was given by Nathaniel Hawthorne in one of his short stories, to the natural feature known also as the Profile or Old Man of the Mountain. It is on the upper ledges of Cannon mountain, in the Franconia range of New Hampshire, some 1,200 feet above the surface of Profile lake. It was discovered in 1805 by two workmen, who thought the face looked like that of Thomas Jefferson who was then President. The profile is composed of three separate masses of rock, one forming the forehead, another the nose and upper lip, another the chin; its length from forehead to chin is about 80 feet.—Detroit News.

Food Calories

A food calorie is equivalent to the amount of heat which would raise the temperature of about four pounds of water one degree Fahrenheit. An average-sized, healthy man, sitting comfortably in a chair, will spend about 100 calories of energy per hour. This amount of energy, says an authority, is obtainable from the oxidation of about an ounce of starch, or a little less than half an ounce of fat.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk. Laxatives are only makebills. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel 'up and up'. Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

SWISS HERO SHRINE

One Has Been Named In Honor Of the Legendary William Tell

Motorists traveling from Lake Lucerne to Lake Zug in northern Switzerland will soon be confronted with detour signs, deflecting them into a new highway, and forbidding them to travel the accustomed route through the Hohle Gasse (hollow lane). This ancient road, arched with tall beeches, has recently been purchased with funds raised by Swiss school children for a national shrine in memory of William Tell, with whom it is associated.

"Shrines to the legendary Swiss hero abound in the region, reputed to be the scene of his daring exploits," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Dramatized By Schiller

"The blue, mountain-girt lake, known as Lucerne to the English, is called Vierwaldstatter-See (lake of the four forest states) by the German speaking residents of the region because of the wooded cantons surrounding it. In the 13th and 14th centuries Austrian emperors who tried to oppress some of these cantons with heavy taxes were opposed by Swiss patriots. Out of their valiant struggles for independence arose in the 15th century the figure of William Tell. Rolling down the ages, the story of this legendary warrior has become a national epic; its impact felt by the Swiss citizen, its details giving color to a whole region.

"Schiller's play 'William Tell,' published in 1804, spread the tale worldwide. Although Schiller himself never set foot in the region which he described, but obtained much of his information from Goethe, so popular is his interpretation of the legend that on his centenary, the Swiss Government distributed over 200,000 copies of the play to school children. Performances have been given in many Swiss towns, especially in Brugg, Cham, and Altdorf. In Altdorf a special theatre has been erected in which it is presented annually. In 1829, Rossini set the historic drama to music in his opera 'Guillaume Tell.'

Nerve-wracking Bull's Eye For Archer

"The ghost of Tell walks in Altdorf, a town of approximately 1200 inhabitants near the southern end of Lake Lucerne and surrounded by lofty, snow-capped mountains. On the slope behind the town the Bannwald (banned forest), mentioned in Schiller's play, serves as a protection against avalanches. Cutting of trees is severely restricted.

"Altdorf is famous as the place in which the great marksman, having incurred the ire of the tyrannical Austrian bailiff, Gessler, was commanded to demonstrate his skill by shooting an apple from the head of his young son. In the open square a colossal bronze statue of Tell commemorates the scene of his intrepid deed.

"Questioned about a second arrow in his quiver, Tell is said to have remarked that it was intended for the bailiff's heart had the first arrow harmed his son. He was promptly seized and was to have been taken by boat across Lake Lucerne to a prison in Küssnacht. Violent, capricious winds sometimes rush down this lake, causing sudden storms and danger to small boats. Such a storm arising,

Choosing Your Radio Cabinet

Photograph, Courtesy of W. & J. Sloane and of Philco

So you're going to get a new radio?

What fun! For the radio, you know, is no longer in disguise. In infancy, not daring to appear on its own merits, it crept into the living room disguised as one of the traditional pieces of furniture, a table, chest of drawers, or a desk. Modern decorative values, however, are based on a functional suitability, and radios, having established their position as instruments of quality, musically on a par with the concert grand piano, now appear as honest-to-goodness radios, needing disguise no more than a piano.

Today Philco cabinets come in a variety of sizes and types suited to any room in the house and for various locations within the room. In finish again there is a wide choice, Walnut, mahogany and East Indian laurel, for instance are used by Philco cabinet makers in all sorts of interesting combinations. The Eighteenth Century living room from W. & J. Sloane's House of Years, shown here, illustrates the successful combination of the old and the new, with a Philco radio placed like an end-table beside a low Chippendale sofa.

Tell was freed in order to guide the boat to shore. Tell's Platte, a shelf of rock projecting into the lake, is revered as the spot in which he leaped ashore and escaped from his captors.

"In the Hohle Gasse, the narrow tree-lined thoroughfare between Küssnacht on Lake Lucerne and Immensee on Lake Zug, the fugitive ambushed and shot with his crossbow the tyrant Gessler. A chapel, decorated with frescoes illustrating the death, marks the site. Patriots make pilgrimages to this chapel to the one at Tell's Platte, and to the one in Burglen, about two miles from Altdorf which is supposed to be standing on the site of Tell's birthplace.

"At Küssnacht a fountain in the public square is still another monument to his memory. Although his authenticity has never been proved, this mythical hero remains enshrined in the hearts of the Swiss people as a symbol of personal courage and love of liberty."

THE NEW AUTO PLATES
Made This Time At the State Prison — Complex Lettering Is Gone

The new white on black automobile registration plates, manufactured for the first time in the State Prison have been attracting attention for some days.

The caption, "Vacationland," is placed on all passenger and truck plates through a bill in the last Legislature.

Passenger plates run from one to 152,000 and have no lettering. During the last few years a complicated lettering system has enabled passenger car owners to obtain large numbers of low figures in the various letters. The system was carried so far that many sought a significant initial, or a number representing the street or telephone number of the owner. More than one influential individual obtained plates with his three initials and the figure 1. The new plates simply carry the number the words Maine 1936 and the Vacationland caption.

Truck plates are the same with the exception that the number will be preceded by one of the letters—V, W, X, Y, Z. On convertible cars (trucks to passenger), the number will be preceded by an O. On municipal cars the number will be preceded by an M and on State-owned cars by an S.

Dealer plates will carry the word Dealer at the bottom and the number will be followed by the letter A, B, or C. There are three in each set. Motorcycle plates will have an M at the top and side car plates the words Side Car. Motorcycle dealer plates will carry the word dealer and the letter M.

Tractor, trailer, service station, State Police motorcycle and side car plates will all be designated by words, letters or combinations of both. Jitney bus plates will have the word BUS written down the left side, and zone plates, for use of trucks crossing the border from other states, will be oval shaped and carry the word Zone at the bottom.

Ambulance, hears and invalid car plates will have the word "Coach at the top.

Members of the Executive Council will continue to have their special plates, the 1936 editions to be lemon yellow on black with the word Council. With due preparedness the Secretary of State's Department has provided three pairs of plates for each council district.

One of the most commonly noted of the special initial series for 1935 has been the "A. L." issue reserved exclusively for members of the American Legion. With the abandonment of the initial system for this year, these special plates will not of course be available, but in cooperation with the Maine Department headquarters of the Legion, the Automobile Registration Department has had manufactured at the State Prison, narrow auxiliary plates in the black and white colors, bearing the legend, "American Legion."

These plates to be attached to the top or bottom of the regular registration plates will be supplied to members of the American Legion who show certificates from their post adjudants certifying that their membership is paid up for 1936, at an additional cost of 25c per pair.

cially dramatic in his story of the fire in Collingwood, Ohio, which destroyed a school building and cost the lives of two teachers and 173 children. He also told most interestingly the story of the Fitchburg, Mass. conflagration which destroyed a "fireproof" school building on which there was no insurance. The sprinkler system was advocated as the best and most economical fire prevention.

Sandy paid a fine tribute to Chief Payson and his department and apparatus. "The fire house should be larger," he said. "There's not room enough there for a decent game of craps."

The speaker concluded his highly entertaining address by singing "The Man With the Ladder and the Hose."

With the smoke from many cigars curling gracefully toward the ceiling the meeting broke up—the citizens to proceed with their daily affairs, while the firemen adjourned to their station to hold the annual meeting of the Atlantic Engine Company. This resulted in the choice of the following officers:

Clerk and Treasurer—Winfield S. Richards.
Chief—Allen P. Payson.
Assistant Chief—Eugene Y. Thompson.
Steward—Dan Hill.

valuable park at the north end of the city.

We have one of the best cities of its size in the country, excellent churches, theaters, modern stores, and ample housing facilities. We must give our full support to the few industries that we have and do all in our power to help them. As conditions are now we need more industries to absorb between 300 and 400 men and women who must find employment, especially through the winter months. This is our one great problem and must be solved within a short time. We have been taking care of this unemployment to a great extent through the assistance of Federal projects but when this help ceases we must have something ready to take its place. We are handicapped by not having suitable buildings to house industries, and this condition should be given careful thought. With the wonderful spirit of cooperation which we have in Rockland, I am sure the citizens will get together in a united effort to solve this problem which is a most serious one at present.

The mayor was sworn in by City Clerk E. R. Keene, whose reappointment to that office was the first act of the new City Government. Mr. Keene was sworn in by City Solicitor Elisha W. Pike. He has given such splendid satisfaction that his continuation in office for two more years meets with the full approval of everybody.

Other city officials appointed and confirmed yesterday were:
City Treasurer—Charles H. Morey.
City Auditor—James E. Stevens.
City Marshal—Almon P. Richardson.
Deputy Marshal—Walter J. Fernald.
City Solicitor—Elisha W. Pike.
City Engineer—Richard H. Britt.

SNAPPED THE EARTH

Capt. Stevens Was So High He Could See the Globe's Curvature

Striking pictures from high in the stratosphere, showing the earth's actual curvature on the horizon more clearly than ever before, and revealing how the world looks from the greatest height at which photographs ever have been made, have just been developed from films exposed during the recent stratosphere flight of the National Geographic Society, Army Air Corps "balloon Explorer II."

The photographs were shown for the first time in connection with ceremonies at which Captain Albert W. Stevens, commander of the balloon, and Captain Orvil A. Anderson, its pilot, received Hubbard Gold Medals, highest award of the National Geographic Society, in Washington, D. C., December 11.

Presented by General Pershing
The flyers were given the awards "for distinguished achievement in scientific research." The medals were presented to them by General John J. Pershing, General of the Armies of the United States and a life trustee of the National Geographic Society. General Pershing was introduced by Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, President of The Society.

The photographs were taken by Captain Stevens while the Explorer II, was at its "ceiling," 72,395 feet above South Dakota, a new world altitude record. He showed them during a lecture describing the flight following the presentation of the medals.

along the horizon line the curvature is even more plainly visible.

Infra-Red Light Pierces Haze

In taking this picture the camera used by Captain Stevens "saw" a distance of approximately 300 miles, far beyond the range of the human eye. The horizon showing in the photograph is estimated to have been at that distance from the camera. The photograph was taken by infra-red light which is capable of piercing distant haze. All of the other colors of sunlight are shut out of the camera by a red filter in making this kind of long-distance photograph.

The picture shows a vast stretch of western South Dakota, covering more than 33,000 square miles. The Black Hills, from which the flight started and which have an area of about 6,000 square miles, appear as a large dark area at one side of the picture 180 miles in the background. The picture was taken from a position above Parmelee, South Dakota.

The horizon line in the photograph is represented by a stratum of haze estimated to lie about 10,000 feet above the earth. This stratum of haze, however, conforms closely to the sea level surface of the earth and its curvature reflects accurately the curvature of the earth itself.

Rivers Like Delicate Tracery

Both still and motion pictures taken directly downward from the stratosphere balloon while it was at its ceiling of 72,395 feet, the highest-altitude pictures of the earth ever taken, also were shown by Captain Stevens. They reveal the earth as a huge plain marked with tiny checker-board-like farms and fields. Cutting into the level, smooth farm lands are regions of erosion, with innumerable small stream courses, arroyos and creek beds, forming intricate patterns of delicate tracery like frost on a window pane. Roads appear as thin, knife-edge lines. Towns are practically invisible.

One of the most exciting moments of the flight came about midnight during the night of inflation, Captain Stevens declared. A sharp report from under the mass of fabric indicated that something had given way.

Investigation revealed a rip in the balloon nearly 20 feet long. A hurried consultation with Goodyear-Zeppelin officials and Army balloon specialists present disclosed that the balloon could be patched. Captain Stevens paid a tribute to the men who did this under extremely adverse conditions.

Another trying moment came just as the huge bag, the largest free balloon ever built was rising from the Stratosphere. Struck by a downdraft of air, it began to lose altitude rapidly. For a moment a crash against the cliffs seemed inevitable, but Captain Anderson finally stopped the descent by releasing ten bags of lead-dust ballast, lightening the craft by some 750 pounds.

Captain Stevens reported that all the scientific instruments functioned perfectly, but that it was too early to announce the results obtained. Some of the records taken will require weeks and months of study by scientists from the U. S. Bureau of Standards, the Carnegie Institution, the Bartol Research Foundation, and other cooperating scientific organizations.

In presenting the Hubbard Gold Medals to the flyers, General Pershing stated that the studies of this scientific fields, studies bearing upon expedition in at least a score of weather forecasts and cosmic ray research, upon farming problems and radio, illustrate the diverse activities of the National Geographic Society and the useful function of the United States Army in peace time.
